PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Bylaw 206 and "Athletic Motivation"

By William Dabbs, President
CIF-SS Executive Committee

Beginning in the 2003-2004 school year, the CIF State Federated Council began adjusting the transfer rule (Bylaw 207) to reflect language dealing with what most administrators agreed was their chief frustration: transfers for athletic reasons. Athletic directors and coaches frustrated over the number of students who, not liking a coaching decision, moved to another school to seek athletic opportunity. The Bylaws however were silent on the family that moved (Bylaw 206) for the same reasons. It seemed they were immune from any limitation.

In the school year 2009-2010 Federated Council approved language that mirrored Bylaw 207 and limited a student who moved (changed residence) for athletic reasons. This appeared to be a natural extension of the transfer language and made sense. Why allow those who had the means to become eligible if they were doing the very thing that is prohibited under Bylaw 207?

Our schools have responded by notifying the Section Office of those instances of movement that, on the face of it, is strictly because of athletics. The protocol the office has employed has been to deny immediate eligibility, call the family in to discuss the circumstances of the move and then determine if the Bylaw's limitation should be invoked. The press, naturally, has been quick to follow these decisions as well as coaches from programs that have lost students. Some schools as well as some parents have been disappointed by the outcome of these determinations.

The Bylaw was not written with the intent of denying families the ability to move and request immediate eligibility. It was intended to limit those who, based on credible evidence, were clearly attempting to subvert rules and gain varsity status.

This is what the Section must consider when determining that athletic motivation should limit a student's eligibility:

* Evidence of parental or student dissatisfaction with a coach or coaching decision

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA FORD DEALERS BECOME CIF-SS TITLE PARTNER

The CIF Southern Section is pleased to announce the Southern California Ford Dealers Association as their new title sponsor for the 2010-11 school year.

The one-year title partnership includes all 23 CIF-SS high school championships, the 14 Fox Sports West Games of the Week on Prime Ticket, as well as the CIF-SS Academic Awards program each spring.

"The Southern California Ford Dealers are excited to be a part of the CIF-SS and the development of student-athletes," said Southern California Ford Dealers Association President Ken Grody. "Every dealership takes pride in being an important part of their communities and the partnership with the CIF and Fox Sports helps promote the outstanding achievements of our local student-athletes."

The union of the CIF-SS and the Southern California Ford Dealers Association creates an ideal partnership. The CIF-SS represents 581 high schools in Southern California and the Southern California Ford Dealers Association's 80 dealer's touch every community CIF-SS schools encompass.

"On behalf of our member schools, the CIF Southern Section is pleased and proud to partner with the Southern California Ford Dealers Association," said CIF-SS Commissioner of Athletics Dr. Jim Staunton. "This agreement allows the Section to provide first class championships as well helping to keep the promise of low costs to our schools."

The CIF-SS generates 20% of an annual operating budget through corporate partnerships. These partnerships save the schools money each year that would otherwise be assessed through member dues and increased ticket prices. The CIF-SS does not presently charge member student dues and has not raised ticket prices in five years.

Special note to CIF-SS members from Commissioner Staunton:

Support from our title sponsor Ford can only continue with the assistance and compliance of our member schools. By now every school has received one new CIF-SS/FORD Championship banner. It is a membership requirement that you display this banner at your football field during the season and then display it in your gymnasium the rest of the year.

While most of our schools have been great in this effort the past 9 years, it only takes a few to cost us a sponsor. We experienced this fact during the Toyota agreement, and again during negotiations with another potential sponsor. These sponsors have kids or grandkids at all our member schools and they notice whether banners are present or if they are not. In both cases, these sponsor felt that too many schools were not displaying the old Toyota banners.

Our members must display the Ford banners. If your school does not display banners than we can provide you art to place the Ford Championships on your electronic message board. Contact John Costello in the CIF-SS office.

Please assist us with these efforts. It is through our successful sponsorship program that we were able to eliminate student head count dues recently. Continued sponsors success will enable to us continue our status as a 'non dues' organization.

TV & WEB CAST RULES REMINDER

A reminder to our membership: all video rights for TV and webcasts of Southern Section games must be contracted through the CIF-SS office. This includes your local cable companies and smaller webcast services in your local area.

The host school always has the right to say 'no'. However, when a school says 'no' that means know to every video offer.

COMMISSIONER'S CORNER

Why a
Golf
Handicap?

By James Staunton, Ed.D.
CIF-SS Commissioner of Athletics

The Southern Section Office, anxious to hear from our golf coaches and athletic directors, posted a questionnaire through Google docs to allow feedback from our schools on a number of questions. We asked about course locations, the use of electronic devices and whether coaches should communicate with athletes during stipulated rounds. The results will be published soon. One topic that has caused some concern among coaches is the requirement that student athletes in CIF Section competition have a GHIN number (handicap) prior to entry into playoffs. One coach called this "elitist" another complained that it is expensive.

Why require a handicap number?

The answer: it is good for the golfers. Both the SCGA and WSCGA are represented on the Section Golf Committees. For years they have advised that golfers competing in high school should have numbers. Last year this became especially important. The USGA announced that no golfers would be allowed into any amateur events without an index (handicap) number: none. We've known for several years that golfers who participate in AJGA tournaments have and maintain index numbers. Without teaching our students the value and importance of these numbers we do them a disservice.

What golfer, aside from the occasional "duffer" does not know about a handicap? Golf clubs everywhere require that golf scores be regularly posted. It is part of the tradition of the game and requires strict adherence to the rules of golf.

Isn't this elitist?

Hardly: what golf course in this state is without a computer on which to post scores, public or private? What coach wouldn't want twice monthly information on their golfers' scores, trends and current index? Golfers who enter into any amateur competition are expected to post and maintain scores. Why shouldn't our competitive golfers do the same?

RULE REVIEW

From the Mouths of Student Athletes

By Kristine Palle
CIF-SS Assistant Commissioner

As the Student Athlete Leadership Council had its first meeting of the year, I thought it would be important to share some of their inspiring thoughts from our time together. The students had the following warm up assignment:

“Write a letter to a younger sibling or friend that hasn’t been in high school. Express to them what athletics has meant to you, what it has done for you and what they can expect if they participate.”

Here is one example of what was turned in:

Dear John,

Athletics are a very important aspect of high school and I would very much hope that you get involved. Of course academics are very important, but athletics will enrich your high school experience. You will not only make friends and develop great relationships with those people; you will also learn what hard work, dedication and leadership really are. Athletics will help teach you life lessons that no classroom could teach; these lessons will carry with you for the rest of your life.

From my personal experience, I have been involved in sports for four years now. I have made some of my greatest friendships from those teams. My best friend has also been part of the team for as long as I have and through this sport, we have become so much closer to one another. Athletics specifically focus on teamwork. Through teamwork, relationships are created and friendships are born.

My sports have also taught me what it means to be dedicated, hardworking and to be a leader. This year I am a team captain where I’m expected to be a good role model for others. It has also taught me what it takes to be able to get through many difficult practices.

I am excited for your future experience in high school athletics!

I collected 30 writing samples that day and not one talked about “winning or losing a game”. Not one talked about making sure you were attending the high school that had the best record. The true value of the high school athletic experience was saturated on each and every page I read. It reminded me so much of why we make this opportunity available to all students at our schools.

In this economic time of strife and fiscal choices, I encourage you to read the words coming directly from kids. Although they may not always take the opportunity to thank you or have the forum to express what athletics truly means to them, it simple! The experience a student athlete has is educational, invaluable, and one that will last a lifetime... you really couldn’t ask for more!

King's Soholt Turned in a Gold Mettle Performance

By Martin Henderson

She hardly had a chance to become attached to it, and maybe it was easier that way. Hardly had a chance to look it over closely, to feel the texture in her hand. She had worked hard for it, but it had been a gift. She knew she didn't deserve it.

More than anything, though, Carrie Soholt knew she needed to do what was right. She needed to do what was honorable. The reserved 16-year-old wanted to be the good servant.

Rules are made to be broken, the old adage goes, but what about rules that are simply overlooked?

What if the runner who beat you fair and square was wearing the wrong color under-shorts? What would you do if she had been disqualified after finishing second and meet officials handed you the silver medal instead? Would you keep it? Would you parade it through the stands?

Soholt, a junior at Riverside King, couldn't do that. She had just given her best and finished third in the 1600 meters at the Riverside City Track and Field Championships, but had reached the second step of the podium by default.

Marisel Mendoza of Riverside North had beaten her on the track, but lost to her because of a rules violation. Under her dark blue running shorts were multi-colored undershorts, a violation of the rules; they are supposed to be a solid color, and they became visible when her shorts started flapping in the race.

That's what made Soholt's gesture so grand. In an event where the city's schools are collected in one place, in a sport where one athlete had to reach out to a member of her arch-rival, a runner for the Wolves tried to mend the heart of a Husky.

"When we talk about victory with honor and sportsmanship and what this should be about, you don't see it as often as you'd like," said John Corona, King's track coach and the meet director. "We got to see that with Carrie."

This is not atypical of Soholt, who carries a 4.2 grade-point average, aspires to one day run in the Olympics and is, by all accounts, a stellar person. Just a few months ago, when she was selected to run in the cross country league finals and teammate Kasey Tippets was not, Soholt asked Coach Brad Peters to put Tippets in the lineup instead.

The coach was happy with either decision, but he wanted to make sure she wasn't being overly sympathetic. Devoutly Christian, Soholt argued that she had been praying for a way to show love, and this was it. What was Peters to do?

He had watched Soholt, a school record-holder in the 800 meters as a freshman and the 5K as a young sophomore, come back from 10 months of injuries. Severe shin splints wiped out half her cross country and all of her track seasons during her sophomore year, and a broken big toe wiped out most of her junior cross country campaign.

"When league finals rolled around she was finally in shape, it was her moment, and she said she wanted to give it to someone else," Peters said, shaking his head at the thought. "It was an incredibly powerful experience. Carrie didn't want attention for it. I've been coaching 20 years, that was a career highlight."

Because Soholt did not run in the league finals, she did not receive an all-league patch for her letterman's jacket. Tippets offered to cut her patch in half. Soholt declined, having

4. NON-ACTION ITEMS

A. STATE FEDERATED COUNCIL NON-ACTION ITEMS

1. Proposal from State Football Advisory Committee Regarding a Football Mercy Rule – Discuss - This rule applies to 11 man football. 8-man already has this rule. This is a state proposal that allows sections and/or leagues to determine if they wish to institute a mercy rule.

2. Proposal from State Governance Task Force regarding Season of Sport/Maximum Number of Contests – Discuss - Efforts are being made to standardize language regarding contests, scrimmages, calendar dates, etc. across the sections in California.

B. SOUTHERN SECTION NON-ACTION ITEMS

1. Proposal from Golf Advisory Committee regarding Rule 2004, Maximum Team Contests to be presented by Jeff Evans – Discuss - This proposal would exchange the Blue Book language that refers to "tournaments" and replace it with "matches".

2. Proposal from Area Placement/Releaguings Committee – Action - In an attempt to improve the re-leaguings process, this proposal would allow the CIF office to be involved in recommendations for "area placement" with approval by the Executive Committee. Schools will have the ability to request their placement which will take place every 4 years. There was a suggestion regarding re-leaguings taking place every 2 years (as some growing areas like the Inland Empire are doing). A simplified appeals process is also delineated in the proposal. Please review these details. This proposal would take place after the four year cycle starting fall 2010.

5. NEW BUSINESS

A. Governance Task Force Report - Gary Smidderks - Inconsistency in the various CIF Section rules, policies and practices as well as increasing costs in litigation have inspired the genesis of this group that will look at unifying the State Federation. To alleviate legislative attempts to impede operations of the CIF, this group will be looking at ways to add consistency to the practices of the 10 sections in California that range in membership from 11 schools per section to the nearly 580 in the Southern Section.

6. REPORT SESSION

A. President's Report - Sr. Cheryl Milner - Susie Arce, Jerry Halpin, Earl Haugen and Barrett Luketic were recognized as exiting members of the Executive Committee and thanked for their services to the organization.

B. Commissioner's Report - Jim Staunton - The commissioner thanked the exiting members of the Executive Committee. Academic Awards night at Angels Stadium was a success. The Student Athlete Leadership Council's mission statement was shared. It is the goal of the CIF to grow that group. If you have student athlete leaders that you would recommend take part, email Kristine Palle (kristinep@cifss.org). Thanks to those who took part in the surveys regarding transfer rules. The results are available on line. A committee has been started to celebrate the CIF's 100 year anniversary.

C. Treasurer's Report - Jim Monico - Sports fees are in. Shirt sales are down 1.5%. $60k has been donated to Southern Section golf programs by "Friends of Golf". Fall sports' revenue was down 5.2%. Overall the organization is down about 8% with Fall and Winter sports combined. The revenue sharing to member schools is over $811k.

The Need to Critique

By Bill Agopian
CIF-SS Officials Liaison

Evaluations of all forms can be painful. Most dread the annual performance review. Even when done with the best of intentions and with proper skills, there is still the mixed feelings that happen when we try to distinguish the job from the individual. It is also true that an evaluation can serve to be a positive influence and make changes for the better.

So the question is raised- how do we evaluate officials?

What role do schools play in evaluating individual or groups of officials?

Can the coach evaluate officials?

What about internal evaluations by the officials Units- are they of value?

The answer: evaluations, when properly done, can be the responsibility of all groups. Evaluations, when properly done, can be done in unison with schools and the officials Units.

Officiating is a bit of the 'beauty in the eye of the beholder' type of activity. What is seen as a positive for one person may not be so for another. This is due in large part to the subjective nature of the job of an official.

Some consistent areas of evaluation might include:

- Rules knowledge
- Conditioning and general appearance
- Proper positioning and movement
- Communication skills
- Consistency in demeanor and rules enforcement

Some of our officials groups solicit feedback by providing an evaluation form for the coach or administrator. The Southern Section Area Liaison assigned to your school can also be a source to whom you can provide input. Your

LOYOLA AND HARVARD-WESTLAKE CLAIM TITLES IN EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL COMMISSIONER'S CUP

The CIF Southern Section is pleased to announce the top ten girls and boys athletic programs in the 19th Annual Commissioner's Cup.

On the girl's side, Harvard-Westlake took top honors in scoring 19 points on the strength of a runner-up finish and three titles. The Wolverines claimed their third title in 10 years. Harvard-Westlake finished the year with a title in the sports of Cross Country, basketball and soccer and added a runner-up trophy in track and field. The Wolverines three titles tie them for second all time with Santa Margarita. Corona del Mar tops the girl's list with five.

Chadwick finished second with 12 points thanks to a title in cross-country. The Dolphins also added a runner-up plaque in tennis and semifinal finishes in basketball and water polo.

Rounding out the top three is St. Margaret's with 12 points. The Tartans dropped to third on tie-breaking criteria. St. Margaret's made the top-three with a championship in tennis. The Tartans added to their total with a runner-up in cross-country and third-place finishes in volleyball and soccer.

On the boy's side, Loyola claimed their fourth Commissioner Cup title in the past six years with two sports championships, a runner-up trophy and three third-place finishes. The Cubs scored 19 points, winning CIF-SS titles in track and field and volleyball. Loyola also finished as runner-ups in swimming and diving. Loyola added semifinal appearances in water polo, cross-country and basketball. The Cubs four titles are the most of any boy's champions with Oaks Christian, Long Beach Poly and Santa Margarita tied for second at three.

Mater Dei finished with 16 points and claimed the second-place spot. The Monarchs won titles in water polo, basketball and baseball. Adding to that total was a fourth-place finish in track and field. Three schools tied with 15 points but, due to tie-breaker criteria, El Segundo claimed the No. 3 spot. The Eagles claimed titles in water polo and volleyball. They also had a runner-up finish in swimming and diving as well as a third-place finishes in baseball.

The CIF-SS developed this recognition program based upon comprehensive excellence in interscholastic competition. The purpose of this program is to enhance the spirit of competition, sportsmanship, and goodwill among the student athletes and member schools.

The winners are determined by a point system that provides: five points for a divisional championship; three points for a divisional runner-up finish; two points for advancing to the semifinal round or a third place finish in a team-place finish sport (i.e. cross country, golf, swimming and diving, track and field); and one point for a fourth place finish in a team-place finish sport. In cases where a tie occurs the top ten schools were determined by several tie-breaker methods.

"The CIF-SS would like to congratulate these outstanding programs for their championship performances," said Dr. Jim Staunton, Commissioner of Athletics. "They all have a lot to be proud of through their accomplishments and those of their entire athletic programs."

WHEN RULES & SPORTSMANSHIP COLLIDE

By Martin Henderson

The biggest national news of the year in the Southern Section had nothing to do with Robert Woods excelling at football, basketball and track, or anything to do with Servite football going 14-1 against one of the toughest schedules in the nation, or Gary McKnight becoming the winningest boys' basketball coach in state history.

It had to do with a girl, a bracelet, a coach and an ethical dilemma.

What kind of fallout was there from the Robin Laird pole vault controversy that cost South Pasadena High a Rio Hondo League championship?

Nothing good, unless you want to follow the example of Laird, who has been the shining example of sportsmanship throughout. She told KCAL, "It would almost be unsportsmanlike for us to try to take back the title."

You can't print in a family forum some of the things that have been said about Monrovia co-coach Mike Knowles, or repeat the names that he has been called for pointing out to officials that Laird was wearing a woven thread friendship bracelet when she made her meet-winning jump. She was disqualified, and instead Monrovia won its first league title.

Do a Google search on Mike Knowles and it gets pretty nasty. The story appeared in Sports Illustrated and Yahoo and the coach was vilified from California to Maine, instead of just the San Gabriel Valley.

The no-jewelry rule that Laird broke comes from the National Federation of High School Sports. It is not a CIF or Southern Section rule. If the section had decided to overturn the ruling in a way that many called for baseball commissioner Bud Selig to "fix" the Armando Galarraga perfect game, it would have jeopardized its standing within the National Federation and all section records, titles and events would go unrecognized.

Yet, where does the Southern Section stand on this story?

"The letter of the law is without question, no body adornment whatsoever," Commissioner Jim Staunton said. "What I lament is that it was all avoidable. Up to the moment she took her jump, it was all preventable and efforts should have been made from preventing that sad situation from happening."

One needs look no further than the printing on the facade of the Southern Section office building to know where the real truth lays: "Pursuing Victory with Honor" is the foundation of high school sports in the United States. It's not just the Southern Section that upholds that motto, but it goes right up the chain of command to the California Interscholastic Federation and the National Federation of High School Sports.

"Pursuing Victory with Honor should be the overriding force in decision-making," Staunton said, getting down to the nitty-gritty. "Sometimes acting with integrity means giving up something that you really want."

Like a league championship.

One has to wonder if Knowles really is the worst coach in the world as he has been describe. A year ago in a community college game in Minnesota, Central Lakes (Minn.) Community College freshman Ashly Erickson hit a game-winning home run against Rochester Community and Technical College in the bottom of the seventh inning for an apparent 1-0 victory. The losing coach, Jean Musgjerd, explained to the umpire that in the celebration toward home Erickson had made physical contact with her teammates – she essentially got high-fived – and should be out. The umpire called her out (even though he should have issued a warning), the Central Lakes pitcher who had carried a no-hitter through seven, eventually lost it and the game in the ninth inning. "You don't want to win that way, but you have to play by the rules," Musgjerd told the Minneapolis Star Tribune, a comment that Knowles told the media almost word-for-word a year later.

Musgjerd was displaced this past winner by Micah Grimes, who coached a girls' basketball team at the Covenant School in Dallas. After he posted on a website that his team played with "honor and integrity" and he would not apologize for a 100-0 victory in January, he was fired.

There will be someone else down the road, and Knowles will become a mere footnote to most.

After the story went national, Monrovia and South Pasadena administrators, athletic directors and coaches met together and released a joint statement that the schools "have concluded together, and agreeably, that Monrovia will retain the Rio Hondo League championship. It is evident from the actions of the school leaders that the spirit of sportsmanship and camaraderie remains strong in the Rio Hondo League and between Monrovia and South Pasadena high schools. . . . Both coaching staffs unanimously agreed with the ruling by the National Federation that jewelry is not to be worn during competition but took issue with the definition of 'jewelry.' Laird has worn a bracelet made of cloth since November. . . . While this is not the way any team would have liked to win, it was also the feeling of the group that had this incident occurred at a different time in the meet, the outcome would have remained the same, likely without the dramatics leading to such media coverage."

There are four major points in this statement that bear noting.

1. The notion that the two schools have shown an example of "the spirit of sportsmanship and camaraderie" in their decision warrants the follow-up question: Was the spirit of sportsmanship present at the meet?

2. The idea that both coaching staffs took issue with the "definition of jewelry" indicates that neither considered it in the same realm as hoop earrings or metal necklaces that might present a safety issue. Watches, cloth wristbands and hair ribbons – and any number of devices to control an athlete's hair – are allowed in competition. If both staffs took issue with the definition, it had an excuse for restoring Laird's jump. However, it would seem that Knowles intended for the bracelet to be considered a piece of jewelry, which is in contrast to the schools' statement after the fact.

3. If "this is not the way any team would have liked to win," then the schools may have erred in the brevity of their statement. Perhaps it should have at least recognized that South Pasadena had the better on-field performance and that Laird did in fact vault higher than any other athlete with the weight of the meet on her shoulders.

4. While the incident might not have attracted such media coverage if the event had occurred at any other time may be true, "the outcome would have remained the same." Yes, it would if Knowles had pointed out the bracelet and the official agreed that it was a piece of jewelry.

But what if Coach Knowles instead had gone to Laird afterward, congratulated her on her jump and explained that several years earlier, he had a runner disqualified because she forgot to take out an earring that cost his team a section title; what if he conveyed to Laird that he didn't want to see anyone go through that kind of heartbreak, and that's why he was going to look the other way. Or what if he had simply said it to South Pasadena coach P.J. Hernandez, who could then pass the message on to Laird? Or what if he had said it to the Pasadena Star-News to share with the community? Might that have been a more powerful lesson in the human race instead of the athletic one? You know, pass it on.

CIFSS/DODGERS CELEBRATE 28th ANNUAL KENNETH FAGANS TOYOTA "SHAKE FOR SPORTSMANSHIP" AWARDS PROGRAM

The CIF Southern Section and Los Angeles City Section, once again, teamed up with the Los Angeles Dodgers and Toyota to present the 28th Annual Kenneth Fagans "Shake for Sportsmanship" Awards. The awards ceremonies took place prior to the Dodgers-Pittsburgh Pirates game on Thursday, April 29.

Award recipients are determined by the members of their respective leagues. Although participating leagues may establish their own criteria, the CIF-SS offers the following guidelines for the selection process: participation, enthusiasm, behavior at home and away games, treatment of opponents and treatment of the contest officials. Judging is based not only on the student-athletes' conduct, but also on the conduct of the school band members, drill teams, pep squads, cheerleaders and student-rooting sections.

The awards program also includes the Los Angeles City Section, which announced 13 conference winners. In all, the program encompasses nearly 700 CIF-member high schools in southern and central California.

"We are very proud of this most important program," said Dr. Jim Staunton, CIF-SS Commissioner of Athletics. "Schools receiving this award are to be commended for the direction provided by their administrative and coaching staffs, and especially for the positive action of their student body memberships. Shake for Sportsmanship goes hand-in-hand with our Victory with Honor and Character Counts programs and we are extremely proud to be a part of it."

Each of the honored schools was presented with an attractive commemorative plaque, supplied by Toyota, for permanent display on campus.

"Speaking on behalf of both the Southern and L.A. City Sections, we wish to thank the Dodgers and Toyota for their continued efforts in promoting the spirit of good sportsmanship in high school athletics," added Staunton.

The award is also named for former CIF-SS Commissioner, the late Kenny Fagans, who served as Commissioner from 1954 to 1975.

MEMBER SCHOOLS AND OFFICIALS ASSOCIATIONS

By Rob Wigod, CIF-SS Assistant Commissioner

September 5, 2000

I begin by taking you back to this date, which was my 4th day as an Assistant Commissioner for the C.I.F. Southern Section after 17 years as a teacher, coach and athletic director at two different high schools. That morning, I conducted my first meeting with the C.I.F. Southern Section Football Coaches Advisory Committee. One of the main topics at that meeting was concerns our coaches had regarding the officiating at their games. I wrote down several things that were expressed by the coaches and remember thinking that they had some excellent ideas on solving some of these issues. Later that same day, I conducted my first meeting with the C.I.F. Southern Section Area Officials Liaisons, who expressed their concerns for the way officials were being treated by coaches at our schools. I took down several of their ideas as well and then realized that the suggestions from each group were total opposites of each other! At that point, I learned very quickly about the delicate relationship between these two groups: our member schools and the officials association who serve them.

Each of these groups depends on each other, and needs one another, to make sure we continue to provide the vital educational opportunities that students benefit from by participating in athletics. You might be surprised to see how much coaches and officials have in common. For example...

- Love of the sport they coach/officiate.
- Belief in the value of competitive athletics as an extended classroom for students to learn, not only about the particular sport they are involved in, but lessons that students can learn about life.
- Commitment to using the platform they have available to them as a coach/official to educate young people, not just about the rules of a particular sport, but about self-discipline, self-control, dealing with success and failure, sometimes within minutes of each other, facing adversity, meeting and rising above physical and mental challenges, etc.
- Accepting the responsibility to be a role model for young people.
- Doing all of the hard work that they do for very little monetary compensation.

With all of the things in common between coaches and officials, you would think that they could all get along better. Along with what they have in common, here are some suggestions on how to improve the relationship between our member schools, and our officials associations, and both groups share the responsibility for making these happen.

Schools – Make your school a place that officials want to come to. How do you do that?

- Pre-Game Communication – Phone/email before the date of the contest: answer questions, address concerns.
- Provide facilities – Parking, dressing, meeting, etc.
- Attend meetings of officials associations, or have coaches attend them, to develop better relationships and learn about rules, officiating mechanics, etc.
- Help recruit prospective officials – Former student/athletes from your schools?
- Pay – Timely and efficiently, depending on the processes utilized by your school/school district.
- Supervision – Make sure that officials know who is in charge if they need help.
- Pursue Victory with Honor – Coaches, players, parents and community.

Officials – Be the official that the schools want to see. How do you do that?

- Pre-Game Communication – Phone/email before the date of the contest: answer questions, address concerns.
- Prepare – Knowledge of rules and mechanics.
- Be on time, or even a little before – Anxiety is always raised when officials are not there.
- Communicate – With coaches and administrators.
- Give your best effort – Hustle, hustle, hustle!
- Pursue Victory with Honor – Exhibit good character at all times.

As we move through the current school year, let's all try to keep in mind what this is all about. Working together to benefit the young people we are so fortunate to serve.

Best of luck to all.

at the former school.

* Evidence the student's move would result in the assurance the student would gain varsity participation at the new school or result in more playing time.

* A move to a school by the student that is believed (objectively or subjectively) to be more competitive.

* A demonstrated move or transfer to a school with which the student has had an athletic association.

* A move or transfer to a school by a student who is associated with outside agencies that use the facilities or personnel at the new school.

* The preponderance of credible evidence the move was not made in good faith to secure greater educational advantage for the student.

The final standard that must be met is that a hearing panel or commissioner evaluate the evidence of "athletic motivation" is that which a responsible person acting in a thoughtful manner would judge to be with "athletic motivation." There must be some evidence to support the limitation contained in the Bylaw.

Recent economic times have caused families to be more fluid as homes foreclose or are simply abandoned. Sometimes a family's legitimate move may coincide with a confrontation with a coach: what then? The Section Office has conducted several interviews to determine whether a move should be limited under Bylaw 206. The intent is to determine if there is sufficient evidence to invoke the Bylaw; for that we need our schools to give us credible information to support a violation. Many schools have responded very responsibly and given the Office the information it needs.

MARKETING

Additionally, we are becoming aware of more and more schools who are allowing web casts of games without CIF-SS contract. First, this endangers violation of our Fox Sports Net contract. Second, these must be contracted and a fee agreed upon. In every case, the host school of any regular season or tournament game that is web cast or on TV received the fee.

The Southern Section office does this as a service and last year more than $50,000 was distributed back to our member schools who hosted TV/webcast games. Working together we can all help each other.

Should you have any questions or need a special arrangement for your on campus AV class, please contact John Costello at the CIF-SS offices to identify what we can do to accommodate.

There were better ways for this to end, better ways for the final word to be more positive.

Michael Josephson, the noted ethicist behind "Character Counts," said this incident will be perceived as an example of what is wrong in sports. "Rules always matter, and they matter because they are the basis of defining the nature of the competitions and define the parameters of fair play," he said. "The issue is, 'Are there times when the application of a rule in a particular case would defeat its underlying purpose?' What message did it send the way the rule was applied and whether it uplifted or demeaned the notion of sportsmanship? You can't blame the coach for doing it the way you can't blame a lawyer for trying to find a loophole. The question is not whether it was legal, but whether it was right."

If nothing else, Monrovia principal Darwin Jackson had the option to vacate the championship or at least go on record as recognizing South Pasadena as the league's unofficial champion. As is his prerogative, he hasn't opted to go in that direction.

Coach Knowles could have done himself so much good if he had the courage to instead say, in a very public way, "I blew it. The bracelet is as inconsequential as a wristband. The girl deserved to win." He would have been forgiven. Don't believe me? Umpire Jim Joyce took plenty of heat for blowing the call at first base that cost Gallaraga a rare perfect game. Had it happened at a different point in the contest instead of with two outs in the ninth inning, it might not have attracted so much media attention. But afterward, Joyce acknowledged his mistake, he was all but forgiven by most Americans, and the world moved on.

determined that "patches and medals are going to be in a box in a closet some day."

"You know what, it wasn't a hard decision," said Soholt, who has gone on two missionary trips with her Riverside church, The Grove, and is involved in a small group at school called GLO, Girls Learning Obedience. "I just felt God wanted me to give up my spot. When it happened, and after the race was over and I ran JV and she ran varsity, it was just so cool to see the joy on her face, so rewarding to see God's love. He used me as a vessel, and that was just so much more rewarding than running varsity for one race."

But right after that event – she ran and won the junior varsity race – she developed a groin injury and missed Southern Section prelims. Peters, so touched by Soholt's attitude and desperately wanting her to get another chance to run, put her in the lineup for section finals even though she had gone two weeks without training. The payoff: She passed 30 runners over the last two miles, finished third on the team and turned in the critical performance that allowed King to qualify for state.

Then came this next act of selflessness, where Carrie Soholt continued to set the standard.

local sport assignor can also be someone who should be welcoming of any input toward making our officials better.

The key to evaluation systems is to do it consistently. Complaints about a single call may be valid, but it will not achieve the long term goal of improving performance.

Schools and officials groups working to the mutual goal of recognizing and rewarding positive performance is a worthy effort that will benefit all.

Kristine Palle – Shared the topics discussed by the new Student Leadership Council. This committee is made up of students from the Section. Next year they are planning to produce a commercial that will be viewed on the Southern Section web site. She is very excited with the commitment of these students and hopes to have it spread to more school sites.

Mark Rose – Thanked the relegating committee for their hard work. He also mentioned the Sixth Annual Champions for Character Golf Tournament will be held on Tuesday, June 22 and urged the support of the Executive Committee.

Carter Paysinger – Commended his girls basketball team for advancing to the semi-finals this year. He also felt the announcements made at Mater Dei as to where girls were from was unnecessary.

Jerry Halpin – Commended his girls basketball coach for being named the Women's High School Coach of the Year by the NCAA.

Barrett Luketic – Thanked the staff for all their help as he will be moving to Tennessee next year. He stated his experiences with CIF helped in his obtaining his position in Tennessee.

Gary Smidderks – Amplified all the good things CIF does yet we are perceived differently by parents. Southern Section stands tall in the State and the State stands tall in the country.

Earl Haugen – Said good bye to the Southern Section after twenty years working with CIF and thanked everyone for their hard work.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at 5:00 p.m.

What about cost?

Both the SCGA and the WSCGA have created "clubs" that confer numbers on any student athlete whose name their coach – free of charge – enters. Students may maintain these numbers throughout their high school career. No cost. We only require that coaches post these numbers on behalf of the students during the season of sport. Outside the season coaches can check on how their golfers are doing and where they are playing.

Coaches have often asked for changes in the conduct of our championships because they want our student athletes prepared for the college experience. Collegiate golfers must have index numbers. The Section Office looks forward to the day when student index numbers are routinely entered for championship participation. Index numbers assist the tournament managers in making pairings that are competitive for the participants. Golfers with similar skill levels can be paired together.

We think this is a great return for a minimal investment. Our only request is that our coaches maintain this free service. We believe this recommendation is good for our athletes setting them up for a lifetime enjoying a great sport.

They talked briefly, they cried a little, and they hugged emphatically.

A while later, they raced again. In the proper garb, Mendoza won the 3200 meters by a quarter minute.

Soholt took second.

But only on the track.
