Bobby James coolly moves to the arena area and begins to warm up with the other team members for the night’s game. Known as “Swish” to fans and friends, the 5’11” wiz kid is a mystery to many and an irritation to opponents. And no wonder, because “Bobby” is actually a woman basketball player recruited by Gabe Kaplan to play in male disguise on a college team in the Columbia Pictures production of “Fastbreak.”

Cute character, right? But beyond even this frame by frame cinema surprise is a real publicist’s delight. The woman playing “Swish” in the film is not a veteran filmmaker, camp follower or aspiring actress. The Hollywood-byped basketball star is actually a dedicated and down to earth CIF

Mavis Washington poses for her publicity shot for the Columbia Pictures basketball film, “Fastbreak.” She displayed herself as Bobby James to play the star forward of what’s supposed to be an all-male team, coached by comedian and actor Gabe Kaplan. We’re glad to have the real, dedicated Coach Washington back at Rubidoux High School.

DATE CHANGE

All-CIF Invades Magic Mountain

Citizens Savings has just named this year’s date for the All-CIF Awards Ceremonies at Magic Mountain in the girls’ sports of volleyball, basketball, field hockey and softball.

The date had been set for June 16, but due to conflicts with another special event which would involve many athletics, Citizens Savings decided to change the date to June 23.

Even during Hartmann's first year as a regular coach, runners had no starting blocks, but instead dug holes in the track to give them leverage for their starts, he said.

And Mrs. Hartmann can surely re- member it all, also, since the two met during their early school years and were "married in 1918, moved to high school together," said Ernie.

The citizens and sports fans of this community must continue to support the great job that Coach Hartmann has done with his youth through ath- letics, said Ed Heflin, CCA Secre- tary, "for this achievement is a com- plimation to the many contributors and bodies where he coached and to his family."
The torn muscle, sprained ankle, over-extension — the athletic injury. To sports participants they are a plague to be avoided at all costs. But at Irvine's University High School in the CIF Southern Section, a skilled pair of hands and an injury educated mind treat and often prevent injuries through the expertise and understanding of only a veteran athlete and well-versed trainer can have. And at University there's an added adjective for this magical healer. Their athletic trainer is a woman.

Dolores Urbe has been the school's athletic trainer for both boys and girls in sports since September. "It's hectic," says Urbe, but she loves it. The usual day includes a 1 p.m. arrival when tape and other equipment is readied for the day's wraps, massages, whirlpool treatments and ice packs. The students start arriving for advice, treatment and check-ups around 2 p.m. and do not let Urbe rest until much later in the afternoon.

A dedicated athlete herself, Urbe can call forth on a background of competition as well as a 4-year B.S. degree in general Physical Education, with many additional classes for certification as a trainer. These include "biology, physiology, psychology, first aid, current CPR and other requirements for training," she said. There is also required a 1600 hour apprenticeship term with a certified trainer before one's own certification can even be considered, said Urbe. Urbe herself completed three years of apprenticeship, or almost three times the hours she needed.

And the trainer applies all this knowledge and experience to a multitude of varying injuries. The most frequent types are "ankle injuries and shin splinters," she said. "The percentages of these are the same for both boys and girls." At University, Urbe said that the students seem to be provided more knowledge of the body than at other schools. But even at that, "The students don't want to be babies and come in with injuries or potential injuries constantly." "We could eliminate much of the problem if they would come in right away," said Urbe. "It's the attitude that's needed to keep the program running smoothly at University. She feels the lack of a trainer, or some sort of formal education for coaches and students in the area of injury recognition and treatment, can be permanently detrimental to young athletes. As she said of one such case, "My own weak ankles are proof."
