After the R2 checks the lineups and the scorer checks along with the R2, East libero #6 goes in for #11.

NOTE: The scorer does not record libero replacements.

West #9 serves the ball. When contact is made, the scorer puts a circle next to #9 in the scoring column. The scorer also records the start time, which is 8:10pm.

[illegible]

Following West #9 serve, East gets the point.

When the serving team loses the point, the scorer records 3 things:

1. Place an 'R' in the circle that was drawn when the server contacted the ball.
2. Write the number of the point next to the next server for the team that earned the point.
3. Slash the number of the point in the running score column.

West Libero #1 enters the game for #9.

#12 serves for East, and East gets the point.

When the serving team wins a point, the scorer records two things.

1. Put the number of the point inside the circle drawn when contact was made.
2. Circle the number of the point in the running score column.

Substitution for West, #14 in for #2.

For substitutions, the scorer records 3 things.

1. Write 'S' in the scoring column next to the current server, followed by the player entering the match, then a slash, then the player exiting the match (in this case, S 14/2).
2. In the Player Numbers column, slash the number of the player leaving the match, and write in the number of the player entering the match.
3. Slash the number of the substitution in the substitutions box below the Player Number and Scoring columns.

After the last point is over, R1 determines that there was a back row attack violation by East, and therefore, West actually gets the point.

To record a mind change, single slash the original result, then write 'M' next to the slashed event, and then in a box write the final result of the play.

In this case, since we already circled point 6 in the running score, we slash out the 6 and write a 6 next to the original 6 in the Running Score Column.

East coach, upset by the change, argues and receives a Yellow Conduct Card.

Sanctions and delays are recorded in the Sanctions box in the lower left corner of the scoresheet. The number of the player is placed in the Y column if given a yellow card or the R column if given a red card. The number is placed in both columns if given a red and yellow card together. Use 'C' for the head coach, 'A' for an assistant coach, and 'D' if the team is given a delay sanction.

Then record the team (A or B) and the score at the time of the sanction, with the score of the team receiving the sanction going first.

#11 serves for West and scores a point.

#11 tosses the ball for serve, then lets it drop for a re-serve.

The scorer should use 'RS' to indicate a re-serve. Because there wasn't contact on the serve, the 'RS' for re-serve does not go in a circle.

#11 returns to the court for East, and libero #6 remains on the floor to serve for #3, who leaves the court. Libero #6 serves for East, and gets a point.

Since the libero is serving, we use a triangle to indicate that they are serving instead of a circle. We also put a triangle around the position number (not the player number), to indicate that this is the only position where the libero can serve. A triangle also goes around the point in the running score.

West Coach calls timeout.

To record a timeout, record the current score in the appropriate timeout box at the bottom of the scoresheet.

NOTE: The use of 'T' or 'Tx' is not necessary.

#11 serves for East, and West is called for illegal alignment. However, the R2 checks the scorebook and realizes that West was not in an illegal alignment, and therefore a replay is called. East coach argues with the R2. A red card is issued to the East coach.

NOTE: The loss of rally for the red card is put in a square. The rally point earned by the other team is not put in a square, but is recorded the same as any other rally point.

NOTE 2: Because we are going back to the top of the scoresheet to record the rally point, we will switch colors to red for recording the rally point.
