CIF-SS/KDOC-TV KICKS OFF THIRD YEAR OF BASKETBALL GAME OF THE WEEK BROADCASTS

Los Alamitos – The CIF Southern Section (CIF-SS), in partnership with KDOC-TV, today announced the television schedule for the first three weeks of the 2021 basketball season. This spring schedule marks the regional cable network’s third year of providing in-depth high school coverage of CIF-SS basketball across the Southland.

KDOC kicked-off the network’s schedule this past Saturday with a contest featuring Mission League powers as Harvard-Westlake took on Chaminade. Next up is an Inland Empire showdown between Centennial of Corona and Santiago of Corona.

“We are pleased to announce that KDOC has reached an agreement with our organization to televise Basketball games during our current 2021 season,” stated CIF-SS Commissioner of Athletics Rob Wigod. “The support of Jack Peck and the entire KDOC team is truly appreciated and we look forward to the exciting games to come that will be available on their platform.”

Randy Rosenbloom (play-by-play) will join Jeff Tolcher (color commentary) for all Game of the Week telecasts.

“Everyone at KDOC-TV Los Angeles is ecstatic that we will be able to air our package of CIF Southern Section basketball games this Spring,” said KDOC-TV President and General Manager Jack Peck. “As always, the KDOC package will include some of the best teams and great rivalries that make the Southern Section so special.

“KDOC feels very fortunate that Southern California is beginning to open up and that the fans and our production crews will be allowed access to the arenas and gyms,” added Peck. “We know that our viewers will be excited to see the student athletes playing competitive basketball for the first time in a long time.”
